

Back Cover

With 28 varieties of native British seeds, each handcrafted ball is bursting with flowers perfect for bees, butterflies and birds.

Throw them into a space in your garden or plant them in a pot and watch them grow.

Ideally you should launch your seed bombs between Spring and Autumn before it is likely to rain.

Supported by The Tree Project, Wildflowers are great for Bees & Pollinating Insects.

Seed Balls: Store in cool, dry conditions, and use within two years. Children should be supervised. Contains small parts. Do not consume.
